

Climatex AG and its Climatex Collection was awarded first place in the 2016 Bundespreis ecodesign contest in the category «Product». The award honours innovation, sustainability and the quality of design. The Bundespreis ecodesign is widely regarded to be the most important award for intelligent design and sustainability in Europe.

Bundespreis ecodesign 2016

Following the concept of «more than nice», the German Federal Ministry of Environment, together with the Federal Environment Agency, award the Bundespreis ecodesign to products and services that are best practice in sustainability. The main evaluation criteria is resource efficiency along the product lifecycle. The contestants are further judged with a view on consumer behaviour, longevity and reparability. Competing against 350 entrants, Climatex and three contestants were awarded first place in the category «Product»

Link: Award video on Climatex AG

Jury statement

„Intelligent innovation, where textile technology and the materials used combine to create functionality that creates true added value and comfort for the user . Additionally, environmental safety is guaranteed through full disclosure of material and substances used, comprehensive cradle-to-cradle recyclability and transparency regarding the supply chain. Truly exemplary in all aspects.“

Prof. Friederike von Wedel-Parlow, Magdalena Schaffrin